

Nazareth Independent School District Extracurricular Handbook & Training Rules

RATIONALE:

Each student who represents Nazareth Independent School District in an extracurricular activity, student organization, or student club is seen as a representative of the district; consequently, high expectations for good behavior have been established. Furthermore, each student is responsible for his/her conduct at all times during the school year as well as during those times when school is not in session but the individual's activity is still engaged. This applies whether on or off school property.

The following extracurricular discipline management plan is designed to establish high expectations/standards for students who choose to participate in extracurricular activities and or student organizations. Our hope is that extracurricular activities:

- Improve the performance of each individual student: thus contributing to the overall success of the team, and
- Allow the student to serve as a role model to his/her peers; whether they are the same age, younger or older.

Students who participate in such activities and organizations gain a better respect for self, others, and property, as well as self-discipline, trust and acceptance of responsibility for choices made. This management plan requires a commitment from students, parents and school personnel as well as a proactive approach to prevention and assistance. This plan includes conduct that occurs away from school, school functions, activities, and events. This plan applies 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, during the entire school year or until the activity/organization has ended for the year, (whichever is longer)-for all NISD students participating or scheduled to participate in these activities.

The prohibitions and expectations provided in this manual are set as a baseline for expected behaviors and therefore the sponsor may implement stricter rules for his/her participants but they may not be more lenient than what is described below.

NAZARETH ISD ATHLETIC EXPECTATIONS

Practices and Games

- Practices and games are important to each team's success and are mandatory for an athlete to participate in the athletic program.
- Except in the case of illness or injury, a player should not be tardy or absent from a practice without prior communication with his/her coach.
- The individual coach will handle excused & unexcused absences from a practice. Each coach will have a written policy stating how this will be handled for all athletes in their respective program.
- A student-athlete who has been injured and is under a physician's care must bring a statement from the physician that the student-athlete is ready to return to practice and/or game participation. Any limiting condition must be clearly stated in the letter. This is for the protection of the student athlete.

Sportsmanship

- Nazareth School athletes are expected to exhibit the highest level of sportsmanship at all athletic events; home and away, accepting wins and losses with humility. Nazareth School athletes & coaches do not curse, "trash talk" or use profane language. A player who is guilty of breaking this rule will be benched for a period of time or may be suspended from the team.
- Any athlete who is ejected from a game due to unsportsmanlike conduct will serve a one game suspension. If at the time the player is removed from a game, he/she outwardly displays a negative response toward the officials or coaches for the action taken, he/she will meet with the coach and the Athletic Director.
- If at the discretion of the Athletic Director, the Administration, or head coach, an athlete's play or attitude displays a direction which is contrary to the mission of the athletic program, the parents will be contacted for a conference. If the behavior continues, he/she will be removed from the team.

The Role of Parents

Interscholastic athletics offers an opportunity for increased school spirit, improved pride in institutional association, and an occasion for family involvement. With full recognition of and respect for parental responsibility it must be kept in mind that for athletic participation, parents have delegated the responsibility and authority for the young person to the coach. It is reasonable to expect that any parent who has permitted his/her young person to come out for a team should be supportive of the coach. In order for parents to teach respect for authority, the parents must model that respect themselves. The following guidelines are given to encourage parental support of the coach and the athletic program.

- Parents need to respect the rules and decisions made by those in charge, staying positive about every aspect of the team and coaches. Parents are welcome to ask a coach for a meeting or to ask a question, but simply airing negative opinions to others (including one's children) should not be done. Parents should never approach the coach or their child on the bench during the game, at half- time or immediately after a game prior to the post-game team meeting. Parents should never enter the locker room. Proper deference should be shown toward the coach by scheduling an appointment with him/her to discuss concerns in private when he/she can offer his/her undivided attention.
- Parents shall respect other fans, coaches and players. It is not appropriate for Nazareth School fans to confront officials, fans, coaches, or players. Nazareth ISD will have a school official at all home games to handle any inappropriate actions or comments. Parents can be removed from UIL athletic events for a game or a season for inappropriate behavior.
- Parental coaching "from the stands" can only be detrimental to the progress of the athlete or team. A coach needs the full attention and concentration of his players. Uninvited parental intervention during these times is a serious distraction and is detrimental to the program.

How do parents get their questions answered or give input?

Those parents desiring to have input or have questions answered should use the proper sequence of communication. Whenever possible, the first line of communication needs to be between the athlete and coach. A large part of the educational experience of participating in athletics is the teaching of responsibility. It is important for parents to encourage their child to assume the responsibility of communicating concerns with their coach.

The second line of communication needs to be between the parent and the coach. Conferences will not be scheduled on a game day. Conferences need to be scheduled and the conversation needs stay on the subject of the individual child (not other team members) and the concern at hand. Playing time for individual players and coaching strategies will not be discussed.

The third line of communication should be with the Athletic Director. This meeting may involve the athlete, the coach, and the parents.
